The University
HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

THE LANDS OF THE ABOVE NAMED ASSOCIAtion are situated in San Francisco and are eligibly and most desirably located, adjoining the grounds purchased by the Presbyterian University Society, on which College buildings are to be at once erected. The site is less than thirty minutes ride from Montgomery street; lying just west or back of the lands of the South San Francisco Homestead and Railroad Association and the Bay View Park, almost within a stone's throw of ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

The tract will require little or no grading, these being scarcely a single lot on which it would not be safe to build without any change of grade. It commands a

Beautiful View of the Bay,

And its opposite shore, and has a soil of extreme richness. So great are the natural attractions of the spot that very many of the wealthy citizens of San Francisco have already purchased whole Blocks in the same tract, and design building residences thereon.

The Rev. E. Thomas, D. D.,

Is President of the Association, Lester L. Robinson formerly Vice President of the Sacramento Railroad Company is the Treasurer, and Thomas B. Lowis, formerly of Portland, Secretary.

Four lots, 25x120 feet each, constitute a share, costing $215—paid in monthly instalments of $10 each, after the first payment of $20 has been made.

Maps and books giving full information of the workings of the Association can be obtained at the store of J. L. PARRISH & CO.

It is an easy and a cheap way for young men to procure property which will in a few years make them independent.

Theodore Tilton's Visit to the Home of Mr Seward

[From the New York Independent.]

Mr Seward, I am happy to say, enjoys the personal regard of his neighbors in an eminent degree. His characteristic affability, which, during his manhood years, he was never wont to lose, but which he now loses every day—is still delightfully remembered by his townspeople, and is quoted to a stranger as one of the former glories of a faded young man.

But what do those friends say of his public conduct?

One of the most interesting of psychological phenomena is the peculiar and indefinable regret with which a great statesman's admirers are compelled to witness at last his decline and fall. Mr. Seward stood once like an elm—green, towering, and monumental, but after having grown gradually rotten at the root—a defective Radical!—he at last toppled over, and now lies prone on the ground. Accordingly, his kind hearted neighbors with a pensive air, can only say to the visitor:

"This was once the grandest of all our trees, but look now!" And they inwardly suffer as they make the confession. For, when a man of great reputation thus plays false with public confidence, he becomes the author of a peculiar cruelty to the wounds which he thereby inflicts upon his friends.

As I peered into Mr. Seward's garden, and saw the snow and ice cloaking his trees and shrubs, I could not but think of the still more chilling blight which winter killed his green old age. Of course I do not refer to his domestic bereavements. God forbid that any criticism of a public man's character should go unattended with sympathy at a moment when all critics are looking at the shut windows of his half empty house, and remember that its recent and chief household lights lie quenched in the grave. The late Mistress of his mansion was one of the noblest women in America. I have never heard Mr. Greeley praise the character of any woman as I have heard him praise the character of Mrs. Seward. A few days after her death he wrote in the Independent the most tribute which any public man paid to her memory. Gazing, therefore, at this shadowed house through the haze of his irresistible sympathy, I could not but recall tenderly to my mind my early boyish enthusiasm for Mr. Seward—when I thought him the greatest of statesmen and bravest of leaders, when I believed he loved liberty better than power, and sought justice rather than office, when his calm, pure, limped eloquence flowed like a fountain undefiled, when I ranked him among the foremost of American statesmen, and one of the chief pillars of the antislavery cause, and when I shed foolish tears of disappointment at his rejection by the Chicago Convention, and the nomination of Abraham Lincoln.

Melt, snows of Auburn! and unveil the great man's garden once again to the sun, but his pleasant plants, when they renew their leaf and bloom, shall only mock their master's laurels which shall not again be green.

THE SWORD AND THE PRESS.—The following beautiful extract, illustrating in a powerful manner the advantages of printing to mankind, is from an essay by Thomas Carlisle, in the British Review over twenty years ago, when that somewhat noted writer clothed his ideas in plain English, and his work could be read without the aid of glossary, and understood without an insight into the mysteries of Transcendentalism.

"When Temerlane had finished building his pyramid of seventy thousand human skulls, and was seen standing at the gate of Damascus, glittering in steel, with his battle ax on his shoulder, till his fierce hosts filed out into new victories and new carnage, the pale looker-on might have fancied that nature was in her death throes, for horror and despair had taken possession of the earth—the sun of manhood seemed bathing in seas of blood. Yet it might be on that very gala day of Tamerlane, that a little boy was playing on the streets of Modin, whose history was more important than twenty Tamerlanes. The Khan with his shaggy denizens of the wilderness, 'passed away like the whirlwind,' to be forgotten forever; and that German artisan has wrought a benefit which is yet immeasurably expanding itself through all countries and through all times. What are the conquests and expeditions of the whole corporations, from Walter the Penniless to Napoleon Bonaparte, compared with the moveable types of Faust? Truly, it is a mortifying thing for your conquerors to godfeet how perishable is the metal with which he hammers with such violence, how the kind earth will soon shroud up his bloody footprints, and all that he achieved and skillfully piled together, will be but like his old clan a city of a camp—this evening loud with life, to morrow all struck and vanished—a few earth pits and heaps of straw! For here, as always, it continues true that the deepest forest is the stillest, that, as in the fable, the mild shining of the sun shall silently accomplish what the fierce blustering of the tempest in vain essayed. Above all, it is ever better to keep in the mind that, not by martial but by moral powers, are men and their nations governed. How noiseless is thought! No rolling drums, no tramp of squadron, or immeasurable tumult of baggage wagons attend its movements. In the obscure and sequestered places may the hand be meditating which is one day to be crowned with more than imperial authority! for things and emperors will be among its plastering servants, it will rule not over, but in all hands—and with these its solitary combinations of ideas, and magic formulas bound the world to its will! The time may come when Napoleon himself will be better known for his laws than his battles, and the victory of Waterloo prove less momentous than the opening of the first Mechanics Institute."

DISCIPLINE IN THE FENIAN ARMY.—The Fenian leaders were prompt in punishing any breach of discipline or insubordination on the part of their dupes. One instance which occurred near Tipperary was told me lately. A farmer's son who says he was impressed by the insurgents, was out with them Tuesday night. In the morning, feeling very hungry as well as very tired, he said he would go home to breakfast. As no military code, nor even the Fenian code, can recognize the right of an army in the field to go every man his own way to meals, the Fenian leaders objected to this proposal. However the young recruit was unmanded the rigid discipline by which armies are kept together, and being very hungry he was very well fed, and as he weighed the assured delights of the morning rasher and hot tea against remote prospect of a half a porth of bread and water from the brook, he stepped boldly out in the direction of home. The Irish-American leader of the Fenian band went after him, and with no oath gave him his breakfast in the shape of a bullet through his thigh.

The man is now under the care of a surgeon, and on Sunday Mr. Massey, a Magistrate of Kings will, Tipperary went over to take his deposition. One would suppose that anybody who had been so treated would be anxious to bring to justice the fellow who had maimed him. But the farmer's son would not say a word by which either the leader or any of the party could be identified. It is suspected that there have been several other victims of this brutality, but of course no information can be gained upon this point, except in cases like this where surprise aid is called for, and the truth thereby appears.—English Paper.

RESIGNATION OF GENERAL ROSECRANS.—The Catholic Telegraph, of Cincinnati, to which Bishop Rosecrans is an editorial contributor, makes the following statement regarding the resignation of General Rosecrans. Some two months since General Rosecrans' resignation was received by the authorities in Washington, and not, as a special to some of the dailies says, two weeks ago. Nor as that special asserts, did his brother Bishop Rosecrans write to the President asking a suspension of his decision, but he wrote a private letter to Mr. Johnson, asking that he refuse General Rosecrans' resignation on the ground that his services and sacrifices in the cause of his country merited a high position in the army for life. But General Grant, who so shamefully betrayed him at the battle of Iuka, and maligned him after the second battle of Corinth, was too well pleased to have the opportunity of ridding himself of so able, and therefore so dangerous a rival, to refuse to accept the resignation of General Rosecrans. And in thus gratifying his personal desires, he conferred a favor on General Rosecrans, who could not be prevailed upon by the persuasions and remonstrances of his friends to recall his resignation. The General and his son are now engaged in extensive mining operations on the Pacific.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 20, 1867

Why!

The Copperheads have a very common habit of expressing their sympathy with the Southern rebellion by talking about "our rebel fathers." They glorify Davis and Lee and manifest their approbation of the acts of these men and their accomplices by constantly mentioning their names in connection with those of the Revolution Fathers, and by insidiously referring to the authors of our independence and the founders of the Southern Confederacy as equal rebels. This is adopting a very clumsy expedient to give respectability to the rebels of the South. The distinction between our revolutionary ancestors and the principles they contended for, and the insurgents of the South and the principles on which they essayed to establish an independent government, is too clear to every honest mind to occasion any confusion of ideas; and the poor artifice of trying to make Southern treason respectable by coupling it with the principle on which our national independence was achieved, is always instantly detected by every person whose perception is not obscured by an impenetrable prejudice in favor of those who lately undertook to divide the Union. No paper talks so much about "our rebel fathers" as the Oregon Herald. No paper has so many far-fetched allusions to historical incidents for the sake of associating Southern rebels with the "rebels" of the Revolution. No paper makes so zealous, so incessant, an effort to justify the Southern cause by making it appear identical in principle with the cause of '76. Of course it follows on its scheme of things that the secessionists of the South were, in Democratic estimation, entirely right. Yet no paper more strenuously disclaims all sympathy with the secessionists, than the one alluded to. No paper more positively denies that the Democratic party believes in the right of secession. In a single number of that paper we find these two opposite ideas maintained. An editorial article is published, the object of which is to show that the Southern rebellion was identical in principle with the Revolution, and therefore entirely right; and that, as a further consequence, the actors in each are entitled to equal honor. And in the very next column, side by side with these asseverations, is an other editorial article indignantly denying that the Democracy ever had the slightest sympathy the secessionists, and speaking of the secession movement in language which implies that the writer considers it a dishonorable and wicked attempt to "overthrow the Constitution and destroy the Union!" Those who can may reconcile these conflicting declarations. Our only further purpose at this time is to inquire why it is that Copperheads, believing that the late rebellion and the old Revolution were an assertion of the same principle; holding that both are equally justifiable, and maintaining that the authors of both are entitled to the same honor, do nevertheless deny that they ever sympathized with the Southern rebellion, and hold it dishonorable and even criminal to have done so? Why are they proud to own their revolutionary ancestors and ashamed to have it said that they are sympathizers with the Southern rebels? Why do they regard it as honorable to defend the principles of the Revolution, and, at the same time, when accused of partiality for the principles of the late rebellion, resent the imputation as infamous and denounce it as a vile slander? Can anybody explain?

The Coming City Election.

The regular city election, will take place on the third Monday in June, or four weeks from this time. The day is drawing sufficiently near to warrant the commencement of preparations for it by the voters of the city. Some interest is now being manifested in the matter by both parties, and from what we hear, we take it for granted that party lines will be rigidly drawn and a contest fairly made between the Unionists and Democrats. Such we understand to be the purpose of the Union men at any rate; among whom there appears to be a general disposition or determination to run an exclusive party ticket. If the Democrats see fit to join the issue on this ground, of course they will do so. To make a party issue is undoubtedly the right course for Union men to pursue. A thorough Union ticket, composed of well known and reliable men who have an interest in the city and who possess good qualifications for the business that will devolve upon them should be presented and elected. There should be no compromises with political opponents, and no thought of accepting doubtful men. The Union party of this city is quite satisfied with its experience in this line. Every concession of this sort has weakened it, and correspondingly strengthened the opposite party. Where Democrats have decided majorities they never commit blunders of this kind. They always use their power to build up their party, and the result is it has always been perfectly compact and firmly united. The only way by which a party can be maintained is by preserving at all times a distinct and independent organization or being, and by contending at every election for its own principles by supporting its own candidates. Therefore for the future good of the Union party of the city, county, and State, the coming election ought to be contested on a party issue. Furthermore, our city affairs have been for some time an entanglement which nothing but a decided victory for one party or the other can dissolve. Democratic members of the city Council have raised party issues and sprung party measures, and have been assisted in their designs by members who were elected as Unionists,—thus putting the Union party in a false position and tending to weaken and disorganize it. Democratic ascendancy has therefore been temporarily secured in the Council, and the authors and managers of this piece of trickery have been, and are still, using all their efforts to build up the Democratic party through these instrumentalities. Hence there is every reason why the Unionists of the city should nominate a strict party ticket and elect it. We are glad to observe that there is so general a disposition to take this course. If the Democrats are to control the city government of Portland for partisan purposes, (as they will surely do whenever they control it at all) let them vindicate their right to do it by a majority of the votes of the city, and not by enlisting in their cause so-called Union men who have betrayed their party and whom their party has repudiated. But there is no danger of Democratic ascendency if the Union voters of the city do their duty, as it is believed they will. Let us have good candidates for the city at large, as well as for Council men in each ward, and go to work with a will and elect them.

The National Intelligencer, though jubilant at the recent result of the Connecticut election, clearly sees that it was not a victory for Copperhead principles, and fears danger to the party should it be mistaken as such. It says:

> We have not a solitary doubt that misconception and false hopes may arise from the result of the Connecticut election, which may work mischief to the country unless serious reflection and wise attention follow the first conspicuous victory in a State of the North over the Jacobinical policy of Congress. As to the excluded Southern States, now satraples, it does not follow that because of the great triumph in Connecticut they should pursue any different line of conduct than they have heretofore marked out for themselves, in full view of what they have, upon mature consideration, determined upon as consistent without paramount interest.

A Connecticut Democratic paper, the Norwich Advertiser, pronounces the result of the election in that State "the most encouraging sign we have seen since the surrender of Lee." That is candid, certainly. Volumes could not say more

The corner stone of the new Masonic Lodge at Lebanon Linn county will be laid on the 30th inst.

Rev J B Short of the M E Church South, died very suddenly near Albany a few days ago. A post mortem examination showed that his death was caused by an overflow of serum into the cavity of pleura.

A fire occurred at Albany last week which consumed Joseph Lawrence's cooper shop. Loss, $2,000. 1,200 gallons of native wine was stored in the cellar of the building, all of which was lost.

A temperance paper that we know of publishes a column advertisement for a dealer in tobacco and cigars, and gives the business a first class "puff" in its editorial columns. Isn't this a rather an inconsistent proceeding for a straight laced temperance paper?

The Albany Democrat says David Elsgan 15 years of age, a clerk in Moore Guest & Baber's store at Harrisburg, was drowned in the Willamette at that place on the 15th inst. It seems that he in company with Dr Holt, rode into the river in a buggy for the purpose of washing the wheels, but getting into deep water, the vehicle capsized, and young Elsgan was carried away by the swift current. We have not learned whether the body has been recovered.

The Great Colliery Explosion in Virginia—More than Seventy Persons Killed.

(From the Richmond Enquirer, April 5.)

Most of our readers are familiar with the coal dug from the Clover Hill pits in Chesterfield county, about twenty-one miles from Richmond by road, and thirty-one by rail; the company's branch railroad, nineteen miles in length, connecting at Chester, twelve miles from this city, with the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad. These mines, which have been worked for many years, consist at present of three pits, known respectively as the Bright Hope, Raccoon and Hall's pits, and from these pits were raised last year about 900,000 bushels of coal. Both of the last named pits having been for some time submerged, operations in them were temporarily discontinued, and the Bright Hope mine was the scene of a terrific explosion on Wednesday last, which, without a moment's warning, buried nearly a hundred human beings into eternity. The disaster is supposed to have been caused by the neglect of a drunken gas-man to discharge the duties of his office, which are to examine, with one of Davy's safety lamps, the condition of the air, and attend to the proper ventilation of the pits, this ventilation being kept up by means of doors opening into various portions of the pits, the purification of the air in this mine being additionally secured by a powerful wind-fan driven by the pit engine. There are, however, many other causes which may produce an explosion in the mines, one of these being a tumble, or (as it is technically termed by the miners) a fall, which occurs when a portion of the roof falling in admits into the pit the impure gases which may have accumulated above, and which, taking fire from the pits used by the workmen, are sometimes the cause of an explosion.

We are informed that a few days since a portion of the roof of this pit threatened "a fall," and that Mr. Owen was preparing to put in scalers to prevent the danger. The pit has two shafts (used, respectively, for ascending and descending) running 850 feet beneath the surface of the earth, but as powerful was the explosion that the overseers on the platform at the entrance to the shaft were greatly jarred, and so terrific the heat of burning gas that the rope to the bucket, in which two or three fellows were at the time ascending to light and life, was instantaneously severed, as though by a knife, and the unhappy men, with lightning-like rapidity, were hurled back to an awful but hapily a speedy death.

The number of operative in the employ of the Clover Hill Company is nearly two hundred, and a little village with a population of about one thousand, has sprung up in the vicinity of the pits, and when the tidings of the disaster, which had killed some seventy men, spread through the village, the excitement, and suspense were intense. The mouth of the pit was surrounded by some hundreds of persons, and the shrieks, moans and lamentations of the female friends of the victims were indeed harrowing. Stern men who had faced the horrors of many a battle-field, were unable to bear the heart-rending scene, and, weeping like children, turned away utterly unmanned.

The following letter, which was was received on yesterday, will enable our readers faintly to imagine the extent and the horrors of the catastrophe.

CLOVER HILL, April 4, 1867.

D. S. Wooldridge, Esq.:

DEAR SIR:—When the pit bottom was reached last evening, it was ascertained that the lumber house in the pit, which contained some powder, was on fire. I endeavored to get the men to put it out, which, no doubt, could have been done; but the men feared the danger of another explosion, and were unwilling to work. The pit has been examined this morning, and the fire is so small that it could be managed if the men were willing to risk the danger. Under all the circumstances, I have determined to save the pit by closing both the shafts. We are now engaged in this work.

All of the men, about seventy in number, and all the mules that were in the pit, are of course lost. The bodies cannot be recovered until the fire is extinguished and the pit reopened.

Very respectfully, J. H. COX.

At the "Conservative" or Democratic Convention which was lately held at Nashville, Tennessee, every effort was used to induce the negroes to participate, but with very poor success. One of the members of the Convention, who had savagely opposed the enfranchisement of the blacks by the Legislature, tried to obtain negro delegates, but failed. A short time before the Convention assembled the Nashville Union and Dispatch, the Southern Democratic organ, said: Let us fling our whole souls into it. Take the negro into your Convention. Give him a place by your side. Aye, make him a Vice President, let him sit side by side with your first officer in token of eternal reconciliation and fraternity.

The Press and Times says: "A member of the Convention went about among the colored bystanders and tried to coax them to let him have their names as delegates to the meeting. 'Can't come that trick over me, boss,' said one, 'It's no use trying that little game,' said another pleasetting on his heel. A third put his finger to his eye and asked, 'Do you see anything green?' The delegate hunter at last grew desperate and asked a quiet looking darkey for his name. 'What you want my name for?' asked the latter. 'O, I only wished to know where you live.' The name was given, whereupon a friend stepped up and whispered in his ear. Quick as lightning the enraged darkey bolted after his interrogator and said, 'Look here, boss, you jest take my name off dat paper. I ain't no fool!' The hunt for colored delegates stopped."

The Democratic party has stood firmly and nobly at all times by the Constitution, the Union, liberty and law, and will continue to do so.

To enable the reader to appreciate the truth and force of the above, it is only necessary to state that its author is the "man with the record," which, as written in the Polo County Democrat, was ventilated by the OREGONIAN about a year ago. Further comment on the above extract is therefore needless.

We notice that the Democratic papers are "down on" Harpers Weekly. The most of them have sense enough to keep their mouths shut, but the smaller fry cannot "nurse their wrath to keep it warm," but pitch into "Harper's paper sideways, like an infuriated hog on the war path. Democrats who do not wish to "see themselves as others see them," had better not take the paper.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public—considered with reference to the cost of materials and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the minting and commercial value of bullion.

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent, (heretofore a quarter) for all amounts over $1,600, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS.

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,600, and one-eighth of one per cent. for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent. on the silver contained. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.

On bullion under 300 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 300½@600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 600½@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 750½@949½ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.
Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage. But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent.—and which is paid by us to that institution. But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us.

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint.

Gold bars of other Assayers, if good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates.

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co's Express.

CHARGES AT U. S. BRANCH MINT.

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution:

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold, 3 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 300½@600 parts gold, 5 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 600½@750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 750½@930 parts gold, 11 cents per ounce.
For refining bullion from 930½@949½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce.

The charge for coinage is half of one per cent., and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same.

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent—they must be sold at the following our rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage:

856 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.
846 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.
865 par to equal San Francisco A. & R. Works return, at refining charge of 8 cents.

THE TURNER'S FESTIVAL.—By the unanimous voice of everybody who went to the pic nic yesterday, the Turn Verein festival eclipsed everything of the kind which has occurred here this year. At 7 o'clock in the morning the Okanogan took the members of the Turn Verein and a large number of guests to the grounds, and the trips continued, during the day, to carry passengers to and from the grounds, carrying a full load every trip. Persons who are good judges of such matters, estimate that not less than two thousand people were on the ground at 3 o'clock P. M. Upon the arrival of the 10 o'clock boat, the Turners with their colors and various insignia, met the guests and escorted them to the grove. Before the regular exercises commenced, a very pleasant incident occurred, which put everybody in excellent humor and happily introduced the exercises of the day. Mr Sam't Lowenstein, in behalf of the Turn Verein, presented to Mr. F. S. Ostheim, the orator of the day, a beautiful gold-headed cane, making the presentation speech in German. Mr Ostheim received the gift with evident emotion, and made a brief but eloquent response of thanks. The cane was the manufacture of Mr Hansen, with Mr Henrichsen, 99 Front street, Portland, and cost $30.

After the presentation and response, Mr. Ostheim being introduced, delivered an oration in German. Judging from the rounds of applause and the impassioned manner of the speaker, the oration did credit to both the head and heart of the orator. Mr. Ostheim was followed by Mr. D. Friedenrich, who addressed the audience eloquently in English. We regret that want of room prevents a full report of Mr. F.'s speech. It must suffice to say that it was very appropriate to the occasion, beautiful in many passages, and very happy in its historical allusions. He congratulated his countrymen on their good fortune in having homes in America, where their liberties were in such ex-act accord with the ideas from which the Turn Verein society had their origin.

The rest of the day was spent in exercises of various sorts—gymnastics, singing, dancing, swinging, sack races, &c., etc. The enjoyment of the occasion by the participants seemed to be unlimited. The last steamer load from the grove reached the city at about half-past 8 o'clock. The guests without exception speak in the highest terms of all the arrangements, and unite in saying that our German societies can beat the world in getting up and conducting public festivals.

A MEETING OF "ODD" FELLOWS.—The following proceedings of a meeting of odd fellow boarders at the Western Hotel, Sunday, May 19th, have been kindly furnished us by one of the parties implicated, who magnanimously devoted himself to the unremunerative task of making a record. The record runs thusly:

A large number of odd fellows, from all parts of the globe being present by common consent, in the spacious public hall just after dinner, each with a toothpick and about too full for utterance, Mr. I. R. Moores was declared in pleasant to hear Smith the following resolution for the sake of their pheelinks. Mr. Moores said: "Mr. Sam Smith, I am authorized, and it has become my pleasant duty to present you with the following resolution—the odd drive of the sentiments of the lodgers here.

Resolved, That the thanks of these odd fellows is eminently and profoundly due to Sam Smith, the proprietor of the Western Hotel, for his appreciation of the fact that the company and the influence of such members of the Odd Fellows as boarded very generously with him, is to be an equivalent for such board. N. B.—(which means very best.) If he isn't satisfied with this, we'll greenback him—if we can borrow the "Tender." It is understood that the resolution is to be responded to by Applegate. (Immense voices, loud, long and strong—Ad-I-I-I-I-D-I-I-I-I!!) and he responded, manifesting the most embarrassment and blushing modesty. [NOTE—Mr. Applegate's speech is not reported, because the best part of it was the gestures and grimaces and we are unprovided with the necessary cuts to illustrate.] At the part of the response he offered the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously with immense applause.

Resolved, That if our influence, together with our occasional presence here, has not already been sufficient inducement for our board, we will continue to stay until satisfied. Mr. Smith expressed his gratitude in and the kind intentions expressed, and many remarks were made in regard to the excellent and munificent manner in which the boarders had been entertained, and also in regard to the magnanimous manner in which they have bound themselves to reward Mr. Smith. [Here the reporter got demoralized and the "record" came to a abrupt close, as we presume did the meeting.—Local Ed.]

IMMIGRATION AND IMMIGRATION AID ASSOCIATION.—We have received the prospectus of an incorporated association formed in San Francisco during the month of April, with the above imposing title. It sets forth as one of the principal objects, the encouragement of "European immigration of Industrial classes suitable and desirable to the development of the vast resources of this State [California] and neighboring States and Territories." The enterprising proprietors of this scheme modestly admit that they cannot do much without a large capital, and kindly suggest $5,000,000, in shares of one dollar each. There are fifteen of the incorporators, from which it may reasonably inferred that at least $15 of the required $5,000,000 have already been taken, leaving only $4,990,985 yet balancing in the scale of uncertainty—an encouraging indication, that the stock will not have to go long begging for buyers. The company proposes to establish local agencies at various desirable points, to take in as we infer, the offered shares for the offered stock-shares; to take large tracts of land, to be sold again, as we again infer, for remunerative sums of dollars for the benefit of whom it may concern; to assist deserving farmers with seeds, animals and living implements; to assist by capital (mark, capital,) the establishment of manufactories in cities, towns and counties; to make safe investments in a "commercial marine" (tell this to marines). These are only a preliminary preface, as it were, to the succeeding chapters of propositions and promises made by the associated and incorporated company of fifteen latter-day benefactors of society in California and the neighboring States and Territories." To the performance of all which, the fifteen pledge up "unflinching perseverance," which—we presume and hope we are not presuming to much—will not block or flag till the shares are all sold for one dollar each.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GRAND LODGE.—The Grand Lodge I. O. O. F., completed its business on Saturday. The following are the Standing Committees for the ensuing year:

Ninth District, lodge No. 3, W. T.—C. C Howitt.

The Grand Lodge adjourned to meet next May, at Oregon City.

PETITION IN WASHINGTON TERRITORY.—The opposing Parties for Congress in Washington Territory addressed the electors of Clarke county at Vancouver on Saturday. Mr. Garfielde also spoke in behalf of the Union party. A large crowd was in attendance, and the discussion lasted four hours. Mr. Clark's speech, as we learn from persons who heard it, was much less effective than usual, which sufficiently indicates that it was very poor. It created very little enthusiasm, and the impression left upon the people was not so favorable to Mr. Clark as his friends had hoped. Mr. Flanders gained ground by his speech, and Union men generally were directly satisfied with their candidate and the ability he has shown. The address of Mr. Garfielde was superior even to his usual efforts, and a friend who heard him mentioned that of all his speeches which he has listened to, this was much the ablest. The Union men of Clarke county are elated with their prospects, and are confident of obtaining a majority.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Idaho sailed from this port Saturday evening for San Francisco, with the following list of passengers: Capt Geo Pease, Mrs A Rutherford, Geo Wolf, Henry Haines, F A Davis, Geo Winters, Mrs A Frank, G F Elgin, C F Pleasants, A Valley and wife, P Moorhead, J Busenbury, Miss McDaniel, M J Furse, J F Couch, wife and child, W S Bledsoe, D J McCracken, Mrs G N Hamilton, Mrs E J Davenport and child, J McGuire and wife, H A Sedgfield, (Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger,) and nine in the steerage. Total, 30.

A PATENT MATCH-SAFE.—An application for a patent for what the inventor calls the "Monitor Match Safe," was forwarded by the last steamer. The safe is so arranged that it cannot be opened by a person unacquainted with its construction, and the matches are obtained by touching a spring at the bottom of the safe. The spring being touched, a single match springs up through a small orifice at one side. It is designed for use by hotels, boarding houses, bars, etc., where outsiders habitually help their best pockets from the open safes, to the great annoyance of the proprietors.

GROUND FLOUR.—Within a few days we have been shown a letter written by Messrs. Paltee, Burbank & Co., of New York city, to parties in this city, mentioning a large shipment of flour manufactured at G W Haskin's mills, Portland. The letter says that, "it is unsurpassed as the choice St. Louis brands and for family use, we think, as good as anything in this market, and superior to the California flour." It further states that a good trade in Oregon flour is being established in that market.

THE INSCRIPTION.—In our item above, on the Turn Verein pic-nic, we omitted to state the inscription on the cane presented to Mr. Ostheim, which is in German, and a literal translation of which is: "Good Hall: The members of the Portland Turn Verein to their President, I. S Ostheim, May, 1867."

THE RACE YESTERDAY.—A race came off at the White House yesterday afternoon between Jack Knott's mare "Dolly" and W. R Hill's "Kate Darling," half a mile, for a purse of $80. Extracting teeth by Dr. Richardson's apparatus, with Ether or Rhigolene Spray, is local in its application, the tooth and surrounding parts only becoming insensible to pain. Those suffering from bad teeth can now have them removed free from pain and without the effects of inhaling chloroform, ether or nitrous oxide (laughing gas).

AN ANTIDOTE FOR POISON.

THE PAIN KILLER.—Rev T. Allen, writing from Tavoy, Burmah, says: "Within the past four years I have used and disposed of about five hundred bottles, but am now out. Please send me a fresh supply as soon as you can—say two hundred bottles. I dare not be without it myself, and there are endless calls for it, both by Burmans and Karens. I always take it with me into the jungles, and have frequent occasion to use it, both on myself and others. One night, while sleeping in an open Zayate, I was awoke by a most excruciating pain in my foot. On examination, I found I had been bitten by a centipede. I immediately applied the Pain Killer, and found instant relief. In less than an hour I was again asleep."

Rev Mr Hibbard, writing from Burmah to his father, says: "I have used Davis' Pain Killer for coughs, colds, summer complaints, burns, and for the sting of scorpions, with uniform success. We always keep it where we can lay our hands on it in the dark, if need be." ap20dto

THE EARLY HOME OF JESUS.—Fourmiles south of the stirring Greek city of Sephoris, hidden away among hills then covered from the base to the crown with vineyard and fig trees, lead a natural west or basin of rich red and white earth, star like in shape, but a mile in width and wonderfully fertile. Along the sacred and chalky slope of one of the highest of these hills spread a small and lovely village, which, in a land where every stone seemed to have a story, is remarkable as having no public history, and no distinguished native name. No great road led up to this sunny nook. No traffic came into it no legions passed through it. no trade, war, adventure, pleasure, pomp passed through it, flowing from east to west along the Roman road. But the meadows were aglow with wheat and barley. Near the low ground ran a belt of gardens fenced with stones, in which myriads of green figs, red pomegranates and golden citrons, ripened in the summer sun. High up the slopes, which were lined and planted like the Rhine at Bingen, hung the vintage of purple grapes. In the plain, among the corn, and beneath the fig and mulberry trees, shone daisies, poppies, tulips, lilies and anemones, endless in their profusion and brilliant in their dyes.

Low down on the hillside sprang a well of water, bubbling, plentiful and sweet, and above this fountain of life, in a long street, straggling from the fountain into the synagogue, rose the homesteads of many shepherds, craftsmen and vinedressers. It was a lovely and humble place, of which no ruler, no historian of Israel, had ever yet taken notice. No Rachel had been met and kissed into love at this well, no Ruth had gathered up the sheaves of barley in your fields; no town had been built for observation on this hight, no camp had ever been pitched for battle in the vale. That one who would become dearer to the fancies of men than either Ruth or Rachel, then walked through these fields, drew water at this spring, and passed up and down the lanes of this hamlet, no seer then could have surmised. The place was more than obscure. The Arab may have pitched his black tent by the well, the magistrates of Sephoris must have known the village, but the hamlet was never mentioned by the Jewish scribes. In the Bible, in the Talmud, in the writings of Josephus, we searched in vain for any record of this sacred place. Like its happy neighbors, Nain and Endor, it was the abode of husbandmen, and oil and vine dressers, whose lives were spent in the synagogue, the vineyard and the olive grove, away from the bright Greek cities and the busy Roman roads. No doubt it had once been possessed of either an Arab or a Hebrew name, but we do not know the name except in its Hellenic form. The Greeks called the town Nazaret, or Nazareth.

SOME CHANGE IN WORDS.—Words are fossil history, or, in better phrase, catch and preserve events as amber does flies. The etymology of words is itself a key to their meaning and often their origin and history as well, and in the change of meaning words undergo from generation to generation are sometimes hidden hints of shifting customs. Many words show changes which are among the most curious and suggestive of all verbal studies. Thus, conceits once had nothing conceited in them, but a conceited man was only one who had opinions of his own, not necessarily what would "opinionated;" candidate was originally a man who sought the "most sweet voice," of the people for public office, and was clad in a white robe—while now a "candidate" is a man who employs professional manipulations to pull the wires of primary meetings for him, who buys his nomination in caucus, and pays the highest market price for the votes of his constituents, and looks after his own interests when elected. Impertinent originally meant precisely what "irrelevant" means now, and has gradually taken on its present signification, silliam meant only a servant, and "the little villain" would once have contained no opprobrium, and idiot was merely a man in private life, in contradistinction from those who held public office. Let now the tables are exactly turned, and all the idiots appear to be office holders. Imprudence formerly had nothing branch about it, but was simply opposed to what we call bashfulness, puerile was "boyish," without any implied reproach, sceptic was only an "inquirer," or a thinker. As an example of the significance of words upon other grounds, we may cite the verb to trench, which probably took its meaning from the disposition of an avaricious man, when boundary lines were marked by trenches, to make the whole of the trench upon his neighbor's land. The tariff derived its peculiar name from the town of Tarifa, a Spanish or Portuguese town, where the first or one of the first examples of the thing itself occurred, and was carried to a very "protective" extent indeed. Nasty is no master word than "refined" is, but custom is gradually setting it aside as reprobated, nor is genteel an "ungenteel" word, but custom is making it so without any definite reason. Congress and "congregate" have a common origin, and possibly the word, in its meaning of "pooling together," illustrates the way that plunder-seekers "congregate," like birds of prey, about the carcass of the public treasury. Custom, with which are the jus et arbitrium, et norma loquendi, does as it pleases, and for approbation of a word, or its approbation, or its change in the signification, has no other reason than a woman's reason, "I think him so because I think him so," or the concise but inelegant "It is as it is, and can't be no finer," or, perhaps, that of the couplet:

> The reason why I cannot tell;
> I do not like thee, Doctor Fell.
> —N. Y. Evening Gazette.

DEPTHS OF MINES IN ENGLAND.—An English journal, after valuing the total product of the mines of Great Britain at £41,491,102 per annum, and computing that England's supply of coal will last at least seven hundred years longer, at present rates of consumption, gives the following account of the depth to which the bowels of the earth has been pierced in England. The depth to which we mine for coal is already great. The pit at Dunkenfield, in Cheshire, is 2001 feet below the surface to the point where it intersects the "Black Mine Coal," a seam that is four-feet six inches thick, and of the best quality for domestic and manufacturing purposes; from this point a further depth of 500 feet has been attained by means of an engine plane in a bed of coal, so that a great portion of the coal is raised from the enormous depth of 2504 feet. At Pendelton, near Manchester, coal is daily worked from the "enormous depth of 2504 feet; and the coal of Wigan is brought from 1723 feet below the surface. Many of the Cornish miners are equally deep and far more than a mile beneath their subterraneous labyrinths. Some and others in Cumberland, are worked under the bed of the sea; and on both these coasts and we are rapidly extending our subterranean arrowing. The Dolcoath tin mine, in Cornwall is now working at 1800 feet from the surface, and is rapidly sinking deeper. The depth of Treavean, a copper mine, approaches these depths; and, under the Atlantic waves, man is pursuing his labors daily at half a mile from the surface. To aid the miner in these severe tasks, the gigantic steam engines, with cylinders 100 inches in diameter, are employed in pumping water from these vast depths. Winding machines, which are masterpieces of mechanical skill, are ever at work, raising the minerals from each dark abyss; and "man engines," of considerable ingenuity—so called because they bring the wearied miner to the light of day, saving him from the toil of climbing on perpendicular ladders—are introduced in many of our most perfectly conducted mines. Our coal costs us annually one thousand lives, and more than double that number of our metalliferous miners perish from accidents in the mines, and at an unusually early age—thirty-two—from diseases contracted by the condition of their toils. By the industry of our mining population there is annually added to our national wealth considerable more than £30,000,000. This, when elaborated by the process of manufacture, is increased in value ten-fold.—Journal of Mining.

T J Wharton, late Attorney General of Mississippi, in a published letter relating to the Military Bill, says:

The case is simply this. Rejection of the act will not prevent its execution, and will precipitate confiscation. Acceptance of it may avert that last and dire calamity. I do not say it will. The chances are it will not. But as there is one chance at least in the latter case, and not one in the former it is the part of prudence to play for that chance. By "masterly inactivity" we fail to arm the negro for our defense. The Yankees armed him for our subjection. He is now with the ballot. We cannot take it from him. Shall it be used for us? is the practical question.

A lawyer in Portland, Maine, made an agreement with a couple of lads to keep his sidewalks free from snow during the winter, agreeing to pay them a certain sum fixed upon for the season. After the first storm in March the boys were on hand, and having cleared the snow from his walks, knocked at the door and demanded the pay.

"But," said the lawyer, "you agreed to it by the job."

"So we did," replied the lads, "but for the winter only, and this is spring, which has nothing to do with our bargain."

The lawyer saw the force of the argument and shelled out the pay.

"Did you pull my nose in earnest, sir?"

"Certainly I did, sir."

"It's well you did, sir; for I don't allow anybody to joke with me in that way."

The inventor of the "walking doll," which was so fashionable a few years ago, is said to have made $75,000 by the patent.

Miscellaneous Items

An old gentleman was presented with a doctor's bill. After looking over its contents he desired the collector to tell the M D that the medicine he took he should certainly pay for, but he would return the visits.

A young roue who had more than once distinguished himself by running away with another man's wife, was lectured by his mother on his prodigacy. "Why don't you take a wife?" said his mother. "I would," said the scamp, "but the husbands don't seem to like it."

A horrible suicide is reported from Iorlia, in Spain. A short time ago a man was brought into the hospital at that place in a dreadful state of mutilation. It appeared that he had locked himself up in his room ripped himself open with a knife, and tore out his intestines, cutting them into fragments and throwing them about the room. He then opened the door and called to his wife, whose horror may be easily conceived. At the hospital, being asked his motive for this act, he said he was driven to it by violent pains in the stomach. He lived until the following day.

The Prussian papers mention a new plan for the care of the wounded on the field of battle which was tried during the late war, and which has now been definitely adopted. Every surgeon is to be provided with a pocket book containing a pencil and a number of labels (like those sold for luggage apparently), with a string at one end. After attending to the wounded man, the surgeon writes on one of these labels the name of the wound and what he has done to it' signs the label and ties it to the wounded man's button-hole. Thus the man can be carried by the hospital attendants to the proper place, and the surgeon to whom he is brought can learn in a moment the state of his wound, and proceed to dress it.

The returns made by the English Poor Law Board for the month of December last, show that at the close of the year 1866, the number of paupers in receipt of relief in England and Wales exceeded 900,000, showing an increase of 2 5 per cent. as compared with the corresponding period of 1865, but a decrease of 2 6 per cent as compared with 1864, owing to the improvement since that time in the manufacturing districts. The increase of pauperism at the close of 1866 was not very great in any division of the kingdom except in the metropolis, but there it exceeded 20,000, and amounted nearly to 20 per cent. The number of persons receiving out-door relief in the metropolis increased from 71,372 at the end of 1865 to 89,727 at the end of 1866.

A Washington letter writer, who attended a recent Colfax reception, gives us the following sketch. "That Spanish looking woman yonder, with the jet black hair and eyes, dimpled cheeks, the incisive and yet pretty mouth—the one wearing a maroon-colored satin, trimmed with white—is Phebe Cary. She is the wittiest woman in America, and one of our best poets. Within the last two years she has more than fulfilled the early promise of her youth. Some of the very best lyrics in our language, written within that time are from her heart and pen. That tall, graceful woman by her side, dressed in black, with a white lace shawl, is Alice Cary. For face and presence she would be singled out in any company. Her face is sad and sweet, her eyes the gentlest brown. One of the most distinguished of American portrait painters said of her, 'She is beautiful, I find myself constantly turning to her face.' This is not over praise. The eyes which discern it trace on her countenance that imperishable beauty of the spirit which survives and surpasses the beauty of youth."

1814, when Jeremiah Neave went to reside at Cincinnati, he took along with him a "good chunk" of pony—about as definite a description as a lump of chalk—which was of no further use to him after his arrival, and he sold it to a Mr Williams, who had the contract of carrying the mail between this city and Chillicothe. William's son, now the well known "Squire" Williams, of Delhi township, was the mail boy, making the trip either once or twice a week. The bag was larger than was required for the letters alone, and he would attend to purchasing groceries for the neighbors, riding the pony besides, and carrying a pair of private saddle bags. At the present time there is handled over 24,000 pounds daily each way, and there are over 4,000 mails distributed; not all of them, however, in separate mail bags—oftentimes a dozen mails for small country towns in the same section, being in the same mail bags.

The progress in our postal affairs, continues the writer, has more than kept space with the other departments of our Government. When our city was first settled, fifty cents each half ounce was the moderate sum charged for carrying a letter to and from the East. Then the price was reduced to twenty-five cents, then ten cents, now the same letter can be sent from the most northern part of Maine to the extreme Southern point of California for three cents. Then it took six months to go between the two last mentioned quarters, now it can be sent in twenty-two days. Then the maximum weight was three ounces; now it is four pounds. Then envelopes were unknown, and the letter was folded many times, and the direction written on the letter itself; now envelopes are exclusively used. Now persons living one hundred miles from the city get their paper in the morning, about as soon as the person who lives in the same city where the paper is published.

In those times a mail to Europe was a rare thing—to Asia, Africa or Oceanica almost unknown, while now we are in constant communication with every part of the civilized world; in fact, we sometimes hear from parts not civilized, as we frequently get letters from New Jersey. Now the Post-office receives over 4,000 different mails; then one mail a month was a great event. Now it takes some 70 men, day and night (Sundays not excepted,) to have our letters ready; then one man could attend to the whole thing in five minutes in each month. So we go, and in 70 years some other "Old Man" will be writing what slow coaches we were, the same as is now being done about our ancestors.

A scotch spiritual medium at Atlanta gives the following communication from the spirit of Abraham Lincoln. It is eminently truthful and free from the prejudice of the medium.

Woe! woe! to the departed spirit who enters here amid the follies of war; woe is the confines of a strife so bloody! My accusers! Ah, my accusers!—their faces rises before me like the Ghosts of Pandemonia! The slain upon every battle-field rise up in mockery to my happy hopes, and thus I am compelled to live for a season, the destroyer of peace and prosperity, of human affection and happy associations—face to face with the sorely injured! I am not taking too much blame to myself when I thus speak, for I was elected as a representative of a great Nation, and as such should have been guided by wisdom—that wisdom which is pure and placeable and injureth no man, but tired with ambition and National Supremacy, I was hurried to all her bitter influences. In vain I now try to fuel I acted to the best of my ability, but conscience, with its "still small voice," unceasingly whispers "it is false."

SINGULAR PRESENTIMENT.—A month before Ward was killed, in Kern county, he dreamed that he and another person was standing together, when a woman threw down a snake between them, and told them to run or it would bite them. They ran but the snake bit Ward near the left breast. The impression was so vivid that he related his dream to several persons. The first words spoken by Ward when he recovered from his fainting fit after the shot, were, pointing to the wound, "Just where the snake bit me!" Explain it.—Visalia (Cal.) Delta.

There is now living in Rockcreek township, Carroll county, Indiana, a woman named Mrs Elizabeth Edging, aged 120 years. She is in the enjoyment of good health and all her faculties.
